pecting the Property of Firms.

Matter of James Black and William -The petition in this case was one of involunary bankruptcy, and was filed on the 22d of June lary bankruptcy, and was filed on the 22d of June, 1867. The acts of bankruptcy alleged in the petition were that Secor, acting for the firm of Black & Secor, composed of the debtors, procured and suffered the property of the firm to be taken in legal process in favor of Thomas P. Secor, on a judgment entered in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, June 5, 1867, for $2,869 78, in favor of Thomas P. Secor against the debtors, and procured and suffered said judgment to be entered and an execution to be issued thereon, to the Sheriff of the city and county of New York against the property of the debtors, and such property, consisting of goods and chattels, to be taken by the Sheriff by virtue thereof; and that Secor procured and suffered said property to be so taken, with intent to give a preference to Thomas P. Secor, as a creditor of the firm, and with intent to defeat and delay the operation of the Bankruptcy act, and that the debt on which the judgment was entered was not a bona fide debt, and that the judgment was so procured and suffered with intent to hinder, delay and defraud the creditors of the firm, and that the firm was wholly insolvent and was so at the time of the alleged acts of bankruptcy.

Judge Blatchford pronounces a long and most ellaborate opinion, in which he holds that the execution was made and procured by William Secor without the consent or knowledge of Black, and that he was insolvent or contemplating insolvency, and that the Sheriff must pay back the proceeds of the sale to the assignee, to be used for the benefit of all the creditors of the estate.

What Constitutes Fraudulent Preferences Important Question.

In the Matter of Seymour, Pearless & Sands-In this case a question of much interest to the nercantile world—as to what amounts to fraudumercantile world—as to what amounts to fraudulent preferences—has been raised, and referred, by order of the court, sitting in bankruptcy, to three referees. The facts, as stated by Edwin James, counsel for the creditors, who now claim goods to the amount of $30,000 as the property of the creditors under the Bankrupt law, are:—A house in Manchester, England, sent the goods here to the firm of Seymour, Pearless & Sands, who, being insolvent at the time, transferred the goods to the agent of the English firm in this city, who, it is alleged, knew of their insolvent condition. It is contended that upon the basis of the Bankrupt law such goods can be recovered for the benefit of the creditors, although by the State law such a transaction might be valid.

Testimony was given before the referees substan-might be valid.

Testimony was given before the referees substantiating these facts. Messrs. Brown, Hall & Vanderpoel. Butters & Parsons and Ward & Whitehead represent the various parties.

SUPREME COURT-CIRCUIT-PART 3. Pyrotechnics and Horticulture-The Seventyninth Street Explosion.

William M. White vs. The Mayor, &c., of New York .- Plaintiff sued to recover damages for injury to his property, and alleged that in May, 1863, he was engaged in business at Seventy-Inith street and avenue A, as a florist and botanist. A firm under the name of Dows & Johnson had a place of business in the immediate vicinity, and had obtained a permit from the city authorities to keep gunpowder stored on their premises. On the 11th day of May, 1863, about six and a half tons of powder which was in this storehouse or magazine exploded, doing considerable injury to various surrounding property, and among others destroying that of the plaintiff. It appeared that White had a large quantity of rare exotics and valuable indigenous plants in his conservatory, which, together with the greenhouse, were almost wholly destroyed, and for this injury he sued to recover compensation. It was shown in evidence that the plaintiff had sent to Mayor Opdyke regarding the storage of the powder in that locality, and that a committee which was appointed to inspect the premises had, prior to the explosion, reported that no danger was to be apprehended.

It was urged as a defence that the city could not be held liable, as the street had not been opened, and was not, in fact, in existence at the time of the explosion.

Plaintiff produced a map of an official survey, to his property, and alleged that in May, 1863, he was plosion.

Plaintiff produced a map of an official survey, showing that the street had been laid out and planned prior to 1863, although it was not cut through to the river.

The court decided, as a point of law, that this defence was no bar to a recovery, and directed the jury to assess the plaintiff's damage. The jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $5,139 20. Twenty days were allowed the defendants to make a case on appeal to the General Term.

The Japanese Acrobatic Troupe-Som ething That Is Not "All Right." Before Judge Cardozo.

George S. Fisher vs. Thomas Maguire .- Plaintiff was in 1866 United States Consul at Yokohama, apan, and the defendant is well known as the ager of the Imperial Japanese Troupe of Acrooats, of which little "All Right" was a member. The plaintiff alleges that in November, 1866, an agreement was entered into at Yokohama, in the District of Kanagawa, Japan, between W. F. Scheidt, Dewitt C. Brower, Edward Banks and Richard R. a period of two years in a traveiling exhibition of Japanese gymnastic and legerdemain feats. The company of artists was composed of native Japanese, and the copartners were to share pro rata in the profits and losses of the enterprise. The gross cap-ital of the concern was $100,000, divided into thirtyprofits and iosses of the enterprise. The gross capital of the concern was $100,000, divided into thirty-two shares, of which Bower owned sixteen, Risley six, Banks, five and Scheidt three. The remaining two shares were to be devoted to the equipment and other expenses of the company. The company gave performances throughout the United States for a period of nearly two years, and the copartnership has since expired. Plaintiff now seeks an accounting of the proceeds of the enterprise, claiming that he is entitled to $2,000 in gold, the par value and proportion of profits of eight shares in the concern, which he says were transferred to him out of the shares owned by Brower. By the laws of Japan a native who leaves the country voluntarily is proscribed, and is prevented ever afterward from returning, and Pisser contends that these eight shares were transferred to him in consideration of his services in inducing the Japanese authorities to grant a special pernit to these native performers to leave Japan withthe privilege of returning.

The defence interposed is that this contract between Pisher and Brower is against public policy and void, on the ground that a Consul, representing the United States in a foreign country, has no authority to use his intuence in his official capacity for the furtherance of his individual interests and profits, and that $10,000 had been already received by Fisher, in full consideration of all his right, title and interest in the etterprise. After argument by counsel the court took the papers, reserving its decision.

Messrs. Davit Dudley Field and Augustus M. Smith as counsel for the respondent, to proceed with the argument on his celebrated case.

Mr. Rapallo her stated the case and said there was a question of enharrassment owing to the injunction which had been granted by Judge Balcom staying proceedings, and he would prefer to be instructed by the court regarding the course he should pursue.

Mr. Field objected to the court giving any instruction or advice in the matter, as the court was not there in any sense as aparty to the suit.

Mr. Rapallo would like to know what parties Mr. Field appeared for, and Mr. Field stated that it was for the gentleman to sroceed with his branch of the case and he would then ascertain his (Mr. Field's) position in the matter.

And deponent says that several contracts were made at different times between the two companies; but the lease of the Buffalo, Bradford and Pittsburg Railroad was made on and not after January 5, 1866. That by said lease the Eric Company agreed to pay the bonds of the Bradford road, and it was thereupon agreed betw

The order granted by Judge Gilbert was in direct opposition to that previously issued by Judge Barnard, and as a strategic novement on the part of the speculative director and his party it answered all the purposes for which it was sought. The Eric case came up for argument before Judge Barnard this morning, but was by him adjourned until Saturday next, and yesterday the litigation in the case was further complicated by an of John Bloodgood against the Erie party. WEDNESDAY, March 11-6 P. M. The gold market has been heavy and unsettled during the day, and the fluctuations were from 139% to 139%, with the closing transactions at 139%, this price being bid. There was a large amount of cash gold seeking borrowers, and from five to seven per cent was paid for carrying. The gross clearings $2,333,558 and the currency balances to $3,299,287. It was rumored that the government was selling gold to a moderate extent, but this was not con firmed. Considerable sales were made for cash by parties requiring currency, and coin was borrowed in some instances upon securities in order that it might be realized upon in this manner. The stringency in the money market was more decided than yesterday, and it was evidently due mainly to artificial in-fluences. The demand was sharp at seven per cent on call, and there were not a few cases in which this rate in gold was paid to private bankers. The transspeculative director, have resulted in this derange-ment, and it is estimated that about six millions have been locked out of circulation by them. The Erie Company is understood to have drawn nearly the whole of its balance from its bankers in this city, and this was unusually large owing to its including some of the proceeds of the recent sale of ten millions of convertible bonds, which are supposed to have been con verted into stock on Monday under cover of the order issued by Judge Gilbert, of the Supreme Court, Second Judicial district. That the heavy sales of Erie on that day were of new stock into which these bonds had been converted admits of no doubt. An incident transpired this morning which afforded conclusive evidence that artificial means were being resorted to for the purpose of producing a monetary pinch. The Tenth National Bank found itself credited with more than three millions of dollars at the Clearing House, and the bank explained that this large balance to its credit was caused by Messrs, Fisk & Belden making very heavy deposits and then drawing certified checks against them which were not used; and in this connection the following note from the president of the bank to Messrs. D. Groesbeck & Co. explain itself, while it exposes the modus operandi of the TENTH NATIONAL BANK,

TENTH NATIONAL BANK, New York, March 11, 1868. }

Messrs. David Groesberck & Co.—This morning this bank found itself credited at the Clearing House several millions of dollars more than the ordinary transactions of this bank justify. The large balance to our credit in the Clearing House was caused by Messrs. Fisk & Beiden making very heavy deposits in two days of over $3,000,000. The certified checks drawn against the above were withheld from passing through the Clearing House. Today, during my temporary absence to the California steamer to see a member of my family off, I find that a clerk in your employ deposited the said checks and took certificates of deposit for the same. This is compelling the bank to hold $3,25,000 at our risk, and also placing the bank before the community as aiding certain parties to lock up money so as to make an artificial tight money market. Not wishing to see this bank occupy so false a position before this community, you are requested to withdraw the above deposits. Yours respectfully, President Tenth National Bank, New York.

The practice on occasions like the present of lock-ing up money is indefensible, and no bank should countenance it, directly or indirectly, and the one in question has set a good example in this respect. The disturbance resulting from it is not confined to

The stock market has been heavy under the adverse influences affecting it, and the fluctuations in Eric were from 77 to 74. The bull party sustained it inticipated.
